

RETENTION · WELCOME SERIES

Welcome series rebuild: the build plan.

Scope: 5 emails + 3 SMS, the flow scope reserved for September. Built this month, live ASAP, winner locked in before BFCM.

The welcome series is the account's biggest flow and the one losing the most. This plan fixes what's broken in the live flow this week, then tests a rebuilt series against it so we know what works before BFCM traffic arrives.

THE READ

Where the money is, and where it's leaking.

Hiro and Klaviyo, June 26 to September 23, compared with the 90 days before.

€168,485 in welcome revenue, down 36%. Revenue per recipient fell 41%, from €1.28 to €0.75.

New subscribers down 27% (49,484 reached email 1, vs. 67,946). Revenue per new subscriber fell 12%, from €3.88 to €3.40.

That split matters. Most of the drop is fewer signups, which is a popup and traffic problem. The flow's job is the second number: making each new subscriber worth more. That's the number this rebuild is built to move.

75% of welcome revenue comes from the first two emails. Email 1 alone brings in €92,576 (55%). Every email after day 1 returns €0.17 to €0.67 per recipient.

7.9% of new subscribers unsubscribe before the series ends (4,067 in 90 days). Emails 1 to 3 run 2.2% to 2.7% each, and all three are up 11% to 18%.

The first 48 hours carry the revenue, and the back half is costing subscribers without earning much. The rebuild makes day 0 and day 1 count, and gives slower buyers a reason to stay.

FIX NOW

Seven fixes for the live flow.

These go into the current flow with your OK, and stay in place for the test so both versions start clean.

Issue	What we found	Fix
Stale sale banner	All 8 emails open with "SIRAAT PRIME TIME SALE UP TO 56% OFF," linking to bundles. That sale isn't running.	Remove it from every template.
Buyers still get discount emails	No purchase exit. "See Why We Are Top Rated" and "Last Call for an Extra 10% Off" keep sending after someone orders.	Flow filter: Placed Order zero times since starting this flow.
One email never sends	"Save 10% On a Lifetime of Use" is live but reached 0 people in 90 days. Its mobile greeting tag is malformed.	Turn it off. The rebuild replaces it.
Wrong store links	"Top Rated" product blocks link to 2d0add-d6.myshopify.com. Emails 3 to 5 link to /collections/frontpage. The cutting board has two URLs.	Point every link at siraatskitchen.com and check each one.
Broken name fallback	"A Note from Benjamin" opens "Hello {{ first_name }},", so anyone without a name gets "Hello ,".	Add default: 'there'.
Mixed shipping claim	Some emails say "Free Worldwide Shipping," others "Free shipping."	Use the approved line: "Free shipping on all orders."
Sender name	From name reads "SiraatsKitchen."	Change to "Siraat's Kitchen."

Left in the control on purpose: emails 3 to 5 only go to people who've opened, so about 60% of new subscribers never see them, and the offer stays HI10 at 10%. Both are part of what the test measures.

THE STRATEGY

Five emails, three texts, one job each.

The series serves two buyers. 39% of Siraat customers buy the day they find the brand; 18% take one to three months. Days 0 and 1 are built for the first group. Days 3 to 12 are built for the second.

- ✓ Make day 0 count. A clean welcome with the code in live text, not an image, and the code by text 10 minutes later for SMS subscribers.
- ✓ Founder on day 1, in plain text. It's the proven format on this account, and neither competitor can copy it.
- ✓ Prove it, don't claim it. Light Labs testing, the comparison table you already use, and real customer quotes. 60% of buyers arrive already worried about PFAS. They need proof Siraat is the answer, not another PFAS explainer.
- ✓ Move first orders up the ladder. A single pan is a loss on paid traffic, so email 4 shows three ways in by budget and prices the sets with the code applied: the 12-Pcs set is $699, or $629.10 with HI10.
- ✓ Everyone gets every message until they buy. No open-gating, and a purchase exits the flow.
- ✓ Fewer sends, spread longer. 5 emails over 12 days instead of 7 over 10, with texts in the gaps.

THE FLOW

Flow map and timing.

Trigger: added to Email List (unchanged). Flow filter, both versions: Placed Order zero times since starting this flow.

Timing	Message	Job	Replaces
Day 0, immediately	Email 1: Your 10% off is inside	Deliver the code, explain "no coating," first order	Email #1
Day 0, +10 min	SMS 1: Code by text (SMS subscribers)	Same-day order	New
Day 1, 10am	Email 2: Founder note, plain text	Trust, replies, code reminder	"A Note from Benjamin"
Day 3, 10am	Email 3: Non-stick without a coating	Proof: material, testing, comparison	Emails #3 and #5

Timing	Message	Job	Replaces
Day 4, 2pm	SMS 2: See it in action (MMS in the US)	Show food releasing on camera	New
Day 7, 10am	Email 4: Three ways to start	Show more of the catalog, lift AOV toward sets	Email #4, "Top Rated"
Day 11, 2pm	SMS 3: 100-day trial	Take the risk off the table	New
Day 12, 10am	Email 5: In their words	Reviews, guarantees, last code reminder	"Last Call"

- ✓ Smart sending off for email 1, email 2 and SMS 1, which are time-sensitive. On for everything else, so welcome messages don't stack on top of campaigns.
- ✓ SMS: split on "can receive SMS marketing" before each text, quiet hours on, profile timezone, opt-out language on SMS 1.
- ✓ US and international: email 4 shows prices to US profiles only (show/hide on country). Everyone else gets the same email with links and no prices. Same rule anywhere the 12-Pcs set or roasting pan appears.
- ✓ From names: "Siraat's Kitchen" on emails 1, 3, 4 and 5. "Ali from Siraat's Kitchen" on email 2, with reply-to set to an inbox someone reads.

TEST PLAN

How we'll know it worked.

- ✓ Setup. The live flow already has a random split set to 100%. We set it to 50/50: A keeps the current emails with the suggested fixes, B gets the rebuild.
- ✓ Primary metric: revenue per new subscriber, email and SMS combined. Today it's €3.40. Goal: back above €3.88, last quarter's level.
- ✓ Also read: orders per new subscriber (1.4% today), email-only revenue per subscriber so we can separate the content from the SMS lift, unsubscribe rate, and SMS opt-outs.
- ✓ Volume. About 570 people enter a day, so roughly 8,000 per side and 110 orders per side in four weeks. That's enough to call a difference of about 35% or more. If the gap is smaller, we pick on revenue per subscriber and unsubscribes, and keep reading into November.

- ✓ Guardrail. At two weeks, if B trails A by more than 20% on revenue per subscriber, we pause B and review.

THE COPY

Emails and texts, ready for review.

Written in Siraat's product register: calm, specific, numbers over adjectives, approved claims only. Links are listed by page. Implementation checks every URL in preview, since that's where the current flow broke.

Hi {{ first_name|default:'there' }},

I'm Ali, and I started Siraat's Kitchen. Thanks for signing up.

It started with a simple question: what's actually touching our food?

Most non-stick pans work because of a coating, and coatings wear down. They scratch, they peel, and the pan gets replaced every year or two. Our customers tell us the same thing over and over: once the coating started peeling, they couldn't stop thinking about what they'd been eating.

So we made pans without one. A pure titanium cooking surface, hammered so food releases naturally. Nothing to peel, and third-party tested by Light Labs for PFAS.

Ali adds one or two lines here in his own words: the moment he decided to start the company.

If you're not sure where to start, reply and tell me what you cook most. My team reads every reply, and we'll point you to the right pan.

Ali

Non-stick, without a coating.

Most non-stick pans get their release from a coating. Traditional non-stick uses PTFE. Ceramic pans use a sprayed-on layer too. Either way, the coating does the work, and coatings wear out.

Siraat pans don't have one. The cooking surface is pure titanium, and the hammered texture is what keeps food from sticking.

Comparison table here: Siraat vs. coated non-stick, ceramic-coated, stainless steel and cast iron.

You shouldn't have to take our word for it. Our cookware is third-party tested by Light Labs. See the results.

Comparing stainless steel too? So did 41% of our customers before they chose Siraat.

What customers notice first:

- ✓ "My eggs slide right off." Linda
- ✓ "Cleanup is 30 seconds." Thomas H., verified buyer

✓ "No more scraping pans." John

Three ways to start.

Some people swap one pan. Some replace the whole cabinet at once. Here's how to start, by budget.

1. Start small. Under $80.

The Titanium Cutting Board (anti-microbial), the salt and pepper mill set, or the grill press. An easy first piece.

2. Start with the pan. $137 to $149.

The Titanium Hammered Pan Pro, 3-ply, in small, standard and large. The pan you'll reach for every day.

3. Do the whole kitchen once. From $479.

The Cookware Set Pro ($479), the Complete Edition ($495), or the 12-Pcs set ($699, or $629.10 with your code). One decision, and you're done replacing pans.

Your code HI10 works on all of it.

NEEDED BY FRIDAY

What we need from Floris.

1. Founder name. The live note is signed "Benjamin." Our records show Ali. Who signs it, plus one or two lines in his own words on why he started.
2. Offer. Confirm the popup still gives HI10, that it no longer stacks with the Prime Time code, and that it works on sets.
3. Light Labs results. A public link we can send people to.
4. Assets. The before/after creative from paid social, a short clip of food releasing for SMS 2, and the comparison table file.
5. Accessory pricing. Current US prices for the cutting board, mill set and grill press. We have $49 to $78 from July.
6. Trial terms. How a 100-day return works today, so the emails match the policy exactly. Returns are a top Trustpilot complaint.
7. Reply inbox. Where founder-note replies should go, and who answers them.
8. Popup. Confirm it collects phone numbers after email, and whether we can add a first question ("Shopping for your kitchen or a gift?"). That's the next test after this one.

ROUND TWO

What we test next, in October scope.

- ✓ Offer: 10% vs. a gift with a set, like the Pizza Steel that's already the BFCM gift. It fits the bundle-first direction and cuts discount use, which sits at 54% of orders today.
- ✓ Unique, expiring codes, so a "last chance" email is true and codes can't be shared or stacked.
- ✓ Popup question step feeding a gift branch into the welcome series.

Thank you.
